

Jeeves ERP will boost your business through smart systems

Businesses are saving time and money by using a special business tool led by a Warwickshire based information systems company.

Enterprise Resource Planning is being spearheaded by Jeeves Information Systems UK Limited, based at the innovation Centre, in Warwick. The company, which has its headquarters in Sweden, is now helping businesses in the UK to grow and become more efficient using its smart ERP system.

An ERP system integrates internal and external management information across an entire organisation to embrace finance, manufacturing, sales and service using an integrated software application.

Jeeves has 20 years' experience, and is the 'most popular Enterprise Resource Planning solution' in Sweden, ahead of IBS, Lawson, SAP, Oracle and IFS, in the industry-recognised Exido barometer.

Jeeves Information Systems UK Limited offers, through its unique database centric architecture, a flexible ERP system that is easy to adapt to the exact requirement of a business and can create a stable platform for future growth, with an unprecedented low cost of annual ownership.

Peter Fehily, from Jeeves Information Systems UK Limited, said it was critical that businesses purchased the right ERP system:

"One of the toughest challenges to any successful business is developing flexible, efficient processes while adapting your systems to cope with this changing environment.

As markets fragment, globalise and adapt, businesses and their systems must remain flexible. It is a critical success factor of any operation to have the best tools to forecast demand, plan material procurement and labour resources, manage suppliers, control costs and manage accounts.

Mr Fehily also wanted to point out of the financial implications of choosing the right ERP system.

He added: "A lot of horror stories exist from failed and inefficient ERP implementations, which can often be traced back to the selection processes. Businesses change – more so these days – and more quickly too. A system such as Jeeves provides clients with an easy to use, feature rich solution that can fulfil your functional needs now and in the future. Once adaptations and future upgrades become complex, ownership costs rise enormously.

"Growing is a natural part of a business' evolution. Growth can be seen as an increase in size, increasing complexity, an increase in transactions, structural changing within a group of companies, entering new markets and segments and so on. A by-product of growth is the changes in a company's business processes. I advise businesses to choose a system with widespread, proven pedigree. Future-proof your systems by choosing one with enterprise wide capabilities and just implement the modules you need now."

Those businesses and organisations that need Enterprise Resource Planning - need Jeeves!

ENDS. For more information please contact Peter Fehily on 0844 335 1115 or by email via info.uk@jeeves.se